REFLECTIONS newspaper.

Ah! here it is! I'm famous now-An author and a poet! It really is in print! ye Gods! How proud I'll be to show it! And gentle Anna! What a thrill Will animate her breast, To read these ardent lines and know To whom they are addressed.

Why, bless my soul!-here's something strange What can the paper mean, By talking of the "graceful brooks That gander o'er the green." And here's a T instead or R, Which makes it "tippling rill;" "We'll seek the shad" instead of "shade," And "hell" instead of "hill."

"They look so"-what! I recollect, 'Twas "sweet' and then 'twas "kind;" And now to think, the stupid foll, For "bland" has printed "blind," Was ever such provoking work-'Tis curious, by-the-by-How anything is rendered blind By giving it an eye.

"Hast thou no tears," the T's left out, "Hast thou no ear " instead; "I hope that thou art dear" is put "I hope that thou art dead." Who ever saw in such a space So many blunders crammed! "Those gentle eyes bedimmed" is spelt "Those gentle eyes bedamned."

"The color of the rose" is "nose" "Affection" is "affliction;" I wonder if the likeness holds, In fact as well as fiction? "Thou art a friend." the R is gone; Who ever would have deemed That such a trifling thing could change, A "friend" into a "fiend!"

"Thou art the same" is rendered lame," It really is to bad: And here, because an I is out, My "lovely maid" is "mad;" They drove her blind by poking in An eye-a process new; And now they've gouged it out again, And made her crazy, too.

"Where are the muses fled, that thou, Shouldst live so long unsung!" Thus read my version-here it is-"Shouldst live so long unhung," "The fate of woman's love is thine," And H commences "fate;" How small a circumstance will turn A woman's love to hate.

I'll read no more! What shall I do! I'll never dare to send it!--The paper's scattered far and wide-'Tis now too late to mend it. Oh, Fame! thou cheat of human bliss! Why did I ever write I wish my poem had been burnt Before it saw the light.

I've d-d her eyes, that's plain-I've told her she's a lunatic And blind, and deaf, and lame Was ever such a horrid hash In poetry or prose? I've said she was a fiend, and praised The color of her nose.

Let's stop and recapitulate-

Thought there wasn't much chance of winning my new clothes from these gentlemen, looking for it behind the barrels.

In the course of the day I found Brown, who was well dressed and willing to take my bets--so I made the following wagers: A new hat that Pennsylvania would give twenty thousand republican majority, a new coat on fifteen thousand majority and a cravat, a pair of pants, and a half dozer shirts on ten thousand-then I got a bet of a pair of pants and an oyster supper on the result in Indiana -- went home and thought I had done a good day's work, and made a suit of clothes quicker than I could in any other way--went to bed satisfied with the world and dreamed about the cut and
